

NOCTURNAL CHASE BY EXCITED JAPS

About ten o'clock last night the street called River, which is situated Palama way, was the scene of a nocturnal foot-race which, during its duration, afforded spectators a spectacle as amusing as it was exciting.

Vociferous cries of "Police" were the first indication that anything out of the common was transpiring and then out of an alleyway near King street rushed a man said to be a stoker of the S. S. Ventura.

At his heels followed a crowd of excited Japs, yelling wildly.

The chase headed up River street and numbers of fresh Japs swelled the pursuit, rising up apparently out of the ground.

The white man had the speed, however, and crossing a bridge over the stream, disappeared in a cluster of tenement houses.

The Japs discontentedly desisted from the hunt and returned crestfallen to their haunts.

The stoker, it appears, had excited the animosity of the little brown men by purloining a kimono at a house where he was being entertained.

Lobster at the CRITERION today.

The genuine Hawaiian article beside which the boiled importations from the mainland fade into ghastly insignificance.

And with the lobster the German beer which came to us by the S. S. Ventura yesterday.

That's what sporting men call a good double.

COOKING SCHOOL.

New York Sends Us a Teacher of Domestic Science.

Miss Suzanne Tracy, a well-known teacher of cooking from the New York School of Domestic Science, came in on the Mongolia. Miss Tracy's fame as a teacher comes to us from her home and from San Francisco and surrounding towns where she has been lecturing.

During her stay here in Honolulu she will give a course of demonstration lessons under the auspices of the Gas Company, who have secured the services of Miss Tracy to instruct their patrons and friends in the art of cooking and the economical use of the gas range.

We understand these lessons are to be given free, the Gas Company desiring all to have the benefit of these instructions.

VEAL HASH.

The Advertiser is indulging in one of its periodical fits of Pinkhamphobia. Anyone not a fool or a knave—the Advertiser is two in one—knows that the determining factor in establishing a Federal sanitary commission will be found in Washington, not Honolulu, and the opposition to it will be found only in Federal government policies. All the Advertiser is driving at is to get Pinkham's job for someone who will listen to the schemes of grafters posing as purists. It always winds up with "Pinkham should lose its job."—Bulletin.

Viggo Jacobsen is restoring the decorations on a large card owned by the Pacific Club containing the vignettes of the officers of H. M. S. Clio, who visited here many years ago. The face of Lord Beresford, as a boy, appears in the gallery. The picture was a gift of the Clio's captain to Queen Emma and reached the club through Governor Cleghorn. Dunderary side-whiskers were fashionable when the photographs were taken and most of the officers had them on.
